The Fab 5

OUR CAN'T-MISS ENTERTAINMENT PICKS

this week!

TV Salem

Forget everything you learned in history class. In this 13-episode reimagining of the infamous 17th-century witch hunts, the residents of Massachusetts are gripped by suspicion and panic. The twist is that, unlike the real-life event, on this show the witches they fear actually exist — but that doesn't necessarily mean they're the villains. Sunday, April 20, at 10PM on WGN America

TV Orphan Black

On season two of this addictive sci-fi series, Sarah (Tatiana Maslany) is in a race to find her missing daughter, but she'll have to defeat her evil clone (Maslany) to do it. Meanwhile, two of her clone sisters (both Maslany — talk about earning your paycheck!) hide from the dark force that's looking to capture them. Saturday, April 19, at 9PM on BBC America

TV Millionaire Matchmaker

Matchmaker extraordinaire Patti Stanger and her Millionaire's Club get the ultimate challenge from NeNe Leakes in the season seven finale: find matches for two of her bridesmaids. That could be easier said than done, considering one is 44 years old and scares the pants off of men (in a bad way) and the other already has three children. Sunday, April 20, at 10PM on Bravo

MUSIC

Martina McBride

On her 12th studio album, Everlasting, the country legend covers R&B and soul staples, taking cracks at classics from the likes of Elvis Presley ("Suspicious Minds"), Aretha Franklin ("Do Right Woman, Do Right Man"), The Supremes ("Come See About Me") and many more. In stores now

TV Devious Maids

As this melodramatic hit returns, creator Marc Cherry (Desperate Housewives) says, fans should expect to "see some new faces...and say good-bye to others." The one thing we know for sure? Executive producer Eva Longoria directs the season-two debut. Sunday, April 20, at 10PM on Lifetime
