WHO NEEDS CUPID'S ARROWS? The star of Bravo's Millionaire Matchmaker (Thursdays, 9 P.M.) carries a charmed stone to attract and protect love. "It's a heart-shaped rose quartz," says the guru, dating mortgage broker David Krause. "And it works!" Other cherished possessions in her Botkier tote? The Real Secret "I always have Ask and It Is Given, by Esther and Jerry

Hicks. It's the blueprint for manifesting your ideal life."
No More Patti Melts? "I use Natural Calm magnesium powder anytime I feel myself getting stressed. I pour it into a glass of water, drink up and I'm mellowed out."
Sugar Mama "I admit, candy is my weakness. I'm constantly spilling Skittles and Gummi bears in my purse, and then they get stuck to the bottom!"

Good Fortune "I believe in feng shui, and one of the traditions is to keep a red envelope with $100 in it to bring prosperity. No matter what, I never spend that $100."
Eye Wonder "Name the drugstore cure, and I have it: Advil, Miralax, even Vagisil. I use it under my eyes when they're puffy. I'm one of those weirdos."

★ FEUDS OF THE WEEK ★

★ ALAN VS GIRLS ★
GIRLS GRIPE: ALAN CUMMING slammed Lena Dunham's series for glamorizing unprotected sex. "We've got to . . . stop this cavalier attitude," fumed the actor, 48, at an AIDS awareness event December 11. An HBO rep had no comment, but a Daily Mail tally of Girls' 17 love scenes reveals that only five showed unsafe sex.

★ THE POLICE VS KANYE ★
LOCK IT UP! AFTER KANYE WEST declared December 7 that performing the stunts on his Yeezus tour is as perilous as being a police officer or soldier, a cop challenged the rapper, 36, to enlist. "You could quite possibly end all wars, just from the enemy being starstruck," Brimfield, Ohio, police chief David Oliver noted sarcastically in an open letter. West had no comment.
