Coming through the door for a dose of tough love this season is a one-of-a-kind roster of rich and celebrity singles including: Denise Richard's dad, former Match Box Twenty guitarist Adam Gaynor, "Top Chef's Just Desserts" winner Yigit Pura, Olympic speedskater Allison Baver and retired NFL punter Mitch Berger. Patti has proven time and time again that she can handle the over-the-top clients and their high-end expectations, but can she handle her toughest and most demanding client ever...herself?

The premiere episode features Daniel Negreanu, a 37-year-old World Class professional poker player who is tired of folding on relationships and ready to go all in on love. When Patti sends him to acclaimed astrologer Christopher Renstrom to stop him from bluffing his way through dating and get his game back, is he ready to take that gamble? If he plays his cards right this time, he might find his Queen of Hearts. Patti's second millionaire is Brian Holloway II, a divorced, 40-year-old heir to the family fortune. After going through a divorce, he is certainly attached to his money, but he is also attached to his mama. This total Mama's boy brings his very English mother with him to meet Patti which begs the question...who will the bachelorettes have to please? Can Brian cut the apron strings and grow up?

In each episode of “The Millionaire Matchmaker,” two wealthy clients are set up with dates hand-picked by Patti. With a brutally blunt approach and a big heart, Patti and her staff – Destin Pfaff (Chief Operating Officer) and Rachel Federoff (VP of Matching) – give their millionaire clients complete transformations with the help of a diverse array of experts, including psychics, psychologists, counselors, and even NBA “Bad Boy” turned announcer John Salley, to name a few.

An experienced third-generation matchmaker, Patti founded her company Millionaire's Club in January 2000. With her bestselling book, Become Your Own Matchmaker, her DVD “Married in a Year,” and her popular blog PattiKnows, Patti’s business continues to flourish. She may not be everyone's cup of tea, but Patti gives her clients nothing less than her heart and soul in a sincere and sometimes surprising quest to find them their perfect match.
